Eau Claire Students Cook Up Food Truck Businesses

EAU CLAIRE, WISCONSIN. Students at South Middle School in Eau Claire, Wisconsin will spend the week developing the recipe for their own food truck business. Local food truck operators will share their experiences and help students identify the ingredients for a successful business. Students develop their food truck theme, business name, tag line, and a menu of 3 to 5 items. Local volunteers who are graphic designers will bring the student's ideas to life by developing food truck designs and logos.

Using pre-planned recipes, students develop a shopping list, paying attention to the ingredient costs and product selling price to ensure they will make a profit. Students work in an actual kitchen to prepare their food and drink items. After several practice sessions focused on completing the recipes and practicing food presentations, the students will pitch their business and featured food and drink items to a panel of judges.

"We're excited to bring this unique event back to Eau Claire again this year," said Susan Peterson, Junior Achievement Director of the Northwest Area. "It gives our students the opportunity to understand what it takes to develop a successful business by meeting and interacting with local entrepreneurs."

The Junior Achievement Food Truck Event is sponsored by HyVee.
